A Watch Ticks 141,912,000 Times Every year. The various watches revolve from 8,708 to 4,700,450 times annually, and yet we commonly find watches that have been allowed to run five or ten years without cleaning or fresh oil.
If your watch is good, treat it as you would any other piece of machinery.
We do all repairing promptly, reasonably and satisfactorily.

WEYMOUTH and EAST BRAINTREE
—All past pupils of the High School should be in mind the meeting of the Brockton school, East Weymouth, Friday evening, Oct. 11. This meeting is for the purpose of forming an Alumni Association, as was voted last week, and should be well attended.
—The Union Veterans' Association held a large and largely attended meeting Monday evening and voted to challenge the Conqueror Vets of South Weymouth to a trial of the tube for $50 a side and one half the gate money, the trial to take place at the Park, South Weymouth, Saturday Oct.
13th. There is great rivalry between the two clubs and as the Conqueror defeated the Union by the narrow margin of but seven inches at the muzzle, the latter feel that they can defeat the Conqueror, as it is conceded by everybody that the Union shoots water farther than any other tub but did not get in the paper. The Union Vets are also considering the matter of challenging the Protector of Brockton and the City of Lynn of Lynn, as they were not in the paper. The Union Vets are also considering the matter of challenging the Protector of Brockton and the City of Lynn of Lynn, as they were not in the paper.
—The Weymouth High School eleven feet high elated over their defeat of the Brockton team at foot ball, by a score of 6 to 3 at the Park last Saturday. The Weymouth team is well made up and we look for continued list of victories.

Mo., is in town on a visit to Mr. and Mrs.
Richard DeNitt.
—H. L. Thayer has bought the old brick house next to the brick store and is tearing it down and carrying it off. He has also purchased the old wheelwright shop and will at once commence removing it.
Thomas Smith will move his wheelwright business to his blacksmith shop.
—The collector of taxes and water rates was at the Engine house Monday morning and gathered in several thousand dollars.

some floral tributes. Division No. 6 A. G. H. of which deceased was a member attended in a body and escorted the remains to the Catholic Cemetery where the interment took place. The hearse was Messrs.
John F. Dwyer, John W. Carey, Philip Haviland, Patrick E. Corridan, John Galvin and William H. Carey.
—At the fair of the Hingham Agricultural and Horticultural Society Henry Lake-man of Summer Street received the fourth award for largest and best collection of vegetables grown by one person, also a gratuity for collection of seed beans. Mrs.
Laura Johnson received a gratuity prize for the best collection of seed beans. Mrs.
Laura Johnson of this place received a gratuity premium for collection of drawings.
—Edward E. Richards is home from a western business trip.
—The "City of Lynn" which took third prize at the motor a week ago is one of the best land engines in the city and has already this season taken two first prizes.
We received a copy of the Lynn Daily Item this week with a well written account of the motor by the Hon. Mr. H. M. Parker of that city. Mr. Parker covers all the matters that the Lynn Engine attends for the item, and his story of the Weymouth motor is a column and a half long.
The article shows him to be an adept at the business.

Young Girls Fading Away.

Symptoms that seem like consumption; a lack of blood; friends feared one girl would fall dead on the street; restored to health by a sensible woman's suggestion.

Many girls of sixteen years seem to have consumption, although they have not. Their anxious parents and friends watch them slowly fade away. A death-like pallor, transparent complexion and listlessness are signs of this condition. The body lacks blood. Mrs. John Tansey knows the meaning of these symptoms, and the cure. She lives at 130 Baker Street, Detroit, Mich. Her advice to mothers has been of great value to her neighbors. She tells the story to help others who are at a distance. "When my daughter was sixteen years old she began to waste away. "I had not known there was no tint of consumption in the family I would have believed her lungs were affected. "She grew thinner and thinner every day. She lacked only the hacking cough to show all the outward signs of consumption. "Our doctor called the disease by an odd name, which I learned meant simply weak blood. "No treatment seemed to do her any good. "She was fading away before our eyes. "I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and the change they made was almost magical. "Before she had taken half a box there was a great improvement in her looks, appetite and weight. "She gained strength rapidly. Soon she was in perfect health. "Since then I have kept Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the house always and have done much good with them. "One example: "There is a young girl friend of my daughter who seemed almost transparent. "She was white and very thin. We were afraid she would fall dead in the street when she went out. "I begged her to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and finally induced her to try them. They helped her wonderfully, probably saved her life and restored her to perfect health. Now she is recommending them to other young women. "I earnestly advise mothers with growing daughters to keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always on hand as a household remedy. "Many women's lives are miserable because such symptoms as Mrs. Tansey's daughter showed were neglected while they were developing into womanhood. During that period of rapid development the blood needs the highest degree of strength to repair the tissues that are rapidly wasted. "These needed elements are supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The vegetable ingredients of these pills act like magic in restoring strength to the muscles and roses to the cheeks of growing girls or adults weakened by overwork. "All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They cost 50 cents a box and six boxes $2.50.

TROUT HATCHING AND BROOK STOCKING.

In our issue of Nov. 6, 1897, some space was given to an article on "Trout Farming" without a thought that it would lead to anything further than the instruction of a few moments' pleasure to our readers. Since that time, however, it has been brought to our attention, that the very purpose, for which the above mentioned industry was instituted, was being carried out under the very eyes of many of the readers of our columns. No less than six brooks, which have been brought to our attention, have been stocked with trout, and are now once more, after a lapse of many years, repopulated with these justly admitted fish. The mind of the average American, when confronted with a new scheme, naturally tends toward the question of its utility, and the first question asked will be: "Will it pay?" It is not our purpose here to enter upon an extensive argument on the question, as a few words may not be amiss. If a man, wearied with the cares of a busy life, prefers to get his recreation with a fishing rod, having no time to devote to an extended trip to the distant mountain streams where abides this kind of game fishes, he can slip out to a place not over an hour's travel from his office, and for a few scattering days in each year, recuperate his mind and strengthen his muscles, at the small expense of his share in stocking the brook. If he thus is enabled to

After the young fry emerge from the egg, they live for 6 to 8 weeks, upon the yolk-sac, which is affixed to the abdomen of the fish; after this it is necessary to feed them.

AUTOMATIC AERATOR AND FEEDER.

This operation is performed at Nook Hatchery by the aid of an automatic aerator and feeder, invented by C. C.

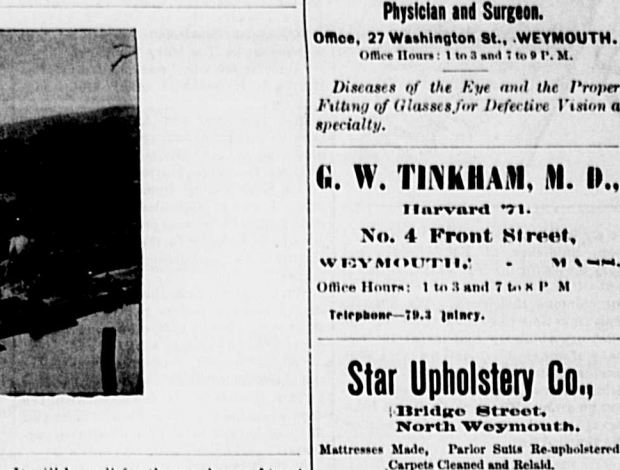

An ordinary galvanized iron ash barrel, with smooth interior is fitted with a tin cone, B, carefully soldered in. A short distance above the lower edge of the tin cone is soldered securely a rim, also of tin, C, and just above this are three openings in the cone, covered with fine strainer, one of which is shown at D. The can is filled with water to about the level of the strainer, D, and in the space between A and B is put chopped ice, as much as needed. As the ice melts, the water runs through the strainer into the can and a low temperature is thus obtained. We have given the above can, which is of our own designing, a thorough trial during some very hot weather and find it has many advantages over anything we have seen. No separate receptacle is required for the ice; the ice cannot come in contact with the fish and bruise them; we get the newing the water from a proper supply, this process could be continued indefinitely, in fact they have been carried half round the world. In transferring trout to the brook or pond where they are to find a permanent abiding place, until they are pulled out to grace the banquet of the sport-loving fisherman and his friends, it is necessary that the water should be carefully changed, so that the fish shall receive no shock which would be detrimental to their life or health. The temperature of the water should be within 2° or 3° of equality, a difference of 6° being sufficient to cause a loss of perhaps one-third of the fish. This may be easily done, by dipping some of the water out of the cans and replacing it with water from the brook, repeating the process occasionally, until the temperature is equalized.

UPPER TROUT POOLS.

Wood, the superintendent of the company, which is shown in the accompanying illustration. Water is run through a small iron pipe, to which are connected cone shaped boxes, filled with the food; the water rises from the bottom to a level with the reservoir, and forces the fine wire screen, which must be set and fastened securely to stakes at any convenient distance from the spring. Set the trough level—let in the water above the fine wire screen and regulate the depth of water by the flash boards at outlet,—which you had better try about two inches. See that the inlet will not readily combined advantage of a conical trap which facilitates aeration of the water and refrigerator can without the bad features of many of them, and in pouring the water for the purpose of aeration they may have the whole top to pour into and so avoid all spilling. This idea is not patented, the cans may be fitted up at any tinmith's, and neighboring fish culturists have adopted them. It will be well for the purchaser of trout eggs and fry to count their purchase, when they receive it, as some people with more than the usual degree of curiosity or "caniness" have found the number short. We can however, assure the reader that there is no danger of this when dealing with the firm mentioned in this article, as the writer can vouch for their honesty through many years of business dealings with the superspawn, supplied 4 to 6 times a day, with one feed of chopped meat as a change of diet, for if fed on the spawn alone, while they apparently thrive and rapidly increase in size, they finally die, as the spawn alone is probably too rich a diet. Care should be kept up until June, (although some of the fish, which develop more rapidly, are sooner removed), where they are transferred to the nursery pools outside. For the balance of the year, the young trout are fed on a meat diet entirely, after and are well pleased with the result. It is necessary that the fish should not be overcrowded, and though it is claimed that 100 one-half pound fish were transported in a common four barrel filled with water, with a loss of only three fish, it is not well to look upon such statements as being entirely true. The cans, holding about fourteen gallons, will safely transport 400 fry in April, when they are 3 months old; or 1,500 fry in July, when they are 6 months old, while it is not safe to put in over 100 which is varied with a mush of boiled middlings. As the young trout increase in size from year to year they are removed from one pool to another as shown in our illustrations, until those which are not sold to stock brooks are grown to a marketable size, or are old enough to act as breeders for succeeding generations. The process of stocking brooks and ponds is not as difficult as it may seem to the casual inquirer, the main point to be considered being that the water shall be within the limits of temperature as recorded above. Trout may be transported at any time, in spite of hot weather, by the aid of proper apparatus and ice; and the first and most important appendage is the can.

fish 112 years old. Fish to be transported are placed in these cans, packed with ice, and taken by train to the place of deposit as quickly as possible. They can be kept for forty-eight hours, without changing the water, if a blower and dipper are used to aerate the water, and ice provided to keep it cool. By re-

I am glad for the benevolent institutions that get a legacy from men who during their lives were as stingy as death, but who in their last will and testament bestowed money on hospitals and missionary societies, but for such testators I have no respect. They would have taken every cent of it with them if they could. Nine horses owned in Ventura, Cal. have just made a remarkable journey. A few months ago T. S. Cook took them to Fayo county, 300 miles from Ventura, on account of the lack of pasture. A few days ago they reached home, having escaped from the pasture and traveled the entire distance without driver or herder. She: "Ah, count, you don't know how my love for you distresses my parents. I heard my father say this morning that he would give $10,000 if I would never see you again." The count: "See your favorite in his office now, you sink!"—Tit-Bits.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Avery attended the grand reception at Sherborn given to Mrs. Avery's uncle, Rev. Edmund Dowse, on Oct. 10th. The venerable and beloved pastor of the First Baptist Church of Boston, who has been a resident of Boston for many years, is a remarkable instance of inspiring influence and help exerted through sixty consecutive years in a New England pastorate. He was born in Weymouth, Mass., and for many years he has been a resident of Sherborn. In addition to his ministerial work he has been chairman of Sherborn's school board for twenty years. He has been connected with the state senate, first as a senator in 1882 and 1870 and for nineteen years he has served as chaplain of the senate. The members of the senate during these twenty years were invited guests. Carriages filled the space in front of the church and the edifice was thronged by the friends present.
